Curriculum and Special Needs Instruction

Equity provides a highly personalized, college preparatory education following a rigorous, honors-level U.S. curriculum designed for students actively pursuing entrance into colleges and universities where English is the primary language of instruction. Beginning in the elementary years, students are met with a challenging curriculum designed to help stimulate a love of learning. During these formative years, students are taught study skills and the value inherent in hard work and dedication through a combination of project based and blended learning. This is done in a safe and secure environment where students are encouraged to learn from achievements and mistakes in order to grow intellectually and emotionally.

By the middle school years, Equity students have generally mastered organizational and study skills needed to ensure academic success in high school. The curriculum at the high school level is considered an honors level curriculum in all subject matter with the exception of beginner-level Spanish and French.

In the 11th and 12th grade years, some core classes are modeled after college level curriculum and labeled as "Honors"; students receive a 10% grade modifier in honors classes. In the 12th grade year, students show the culmination of their learning in the student-directed Keystone Senior Project. This project consists of online learning, student teaching, fieldwork, internship hours, and the production and demonstration of their project. Students who are still more advanced are further encouraged to take online AP courses for credit

In all grade levels, Equity is equipped to handle mild to moderate levels of LD students. Any differentiated instruction is handled within the classroom and under supervision. Struggling students are worked with by involving additional resources and teaching, in-school tutoring, and parental involvement. Where needed, additional help in the form of counseling, therapy, or organizational skill development may be employed. Students who are remedial in English are required to enroll in EFL and/or TOEFL class in lieu of Spanish or French. Any student unable to maintain an overall average of 85% for two consecutive quarters may result in the student not being invited to return to Equity for the following school year.

Extracurricular Activities

Destination Imagination (DI): Upper school students are invited to participate in this four-month long competition. Each team is presented with an imagine challenge that draws on their ability to solve problems collaboratively. Student teams compete against other schools in Guatemala.

Basketball: Male and female teams are assembled by middle and high school students to compete in friendly exhibition games throughout the year.

Volunteer Tutoring: Responsible juniors and seniors are offered the opportunity to provide homework tutoring for elementary grade children who need additional help getting their homework done after school.

STUCO (Student Council): EAS maintains a more than decade long tradition of organizing a highly empowered and influential student council. Class representatives from 7th through 12th grade are popularly elected and are tasked with fulfilling their core missions.

Interact Club: Equity's Interact club brings together our Upper School students and helps them develop leadership skills while discovering the power of Service Above Self. Our students take action to make a difference in and around Guatemala while working with local and international Rotary groups on projects related to education, health and nutrition, clean water and sanitation, and sustainability issues.

End-of-the-Year Service Project: Using funds raised by the student council and donations from the elementary school, all upper school students dedicate the final week of the school year to build school furniture and creating didactic material based on Guatemala's national education curriculum. All furniture and didactic materials are donated to a Guatemalan national school with minimal resources.

VIP (Voices In Print): Our school wide literary magazine showcases various genres from student, staff, and parent authors. Student editors edit content and layout.

The Torch: Our high school newspaper, run by students, is a quarterly news publication and a yearlong extracurricular activity.
